

Welles Double Blown Glass Pendant

Gabriel Scott

The Welles Double Blown Glass Pendant is blown in double thickness, creating a glistening gem that appears to float in the air. The polygonal shape features polished sharp edges, softened by the diffused soft light which is filtered through its translucent facets. Like every Welles fixture this pendant is highly versatile, cascading as a single pendant to create a subtle statement or layered to create an impressive body of staggering pendants. Available in our signature alabaster white and smoked gray glass and complemented by your choice of satin brass, copper, nickel, bronze or black steel hardware.

This pendant is the perfect addition above a kitchen island or bedside table, adding a diffused, ambient light. The sculptural shape is complemented by the soft double-blown glass, creating a subtle statement that complements any space. Displaying quality craftsmanship, this double-blown glass is handmade by a team of expert glass-blowers and
